

WINTER ART CAMP

A month of community for a creative boost to start 2024

How it works

Creative prompts

- 3 times a week you'll get a question by email to nudge your creative self into reflection & action
- You can mull it over in your mind, journal about it, or answer in the Winter Art Camp Community Portal
- The prompts are designed to help reinforce your creative practice and identity.

4 WEEKS

VIRTUAL GATHERINGS

STUDIO SESSIONS

COMMUNITY SPACE

Community space

- On Jan. 2, the first day of Winter Art Camp, you'll get an invite to our private community portal. (It's not live yet, but it lives here: <https://odysseyofthebody.discourse.group/>)
- All the creative prompts will be posted there; you can answer them and read other campers' responses
- You'll also be invited to set up your own "Studio" — basically a discussion thread where you can share your creative work in progress, questions, challenges, anything at all!
- You can also start discussion topics of your own — say, start a conversation about favorite poets, or recipes, or routines.

Live gatherings

- Sat. Jan. 6, 10-11 a.m. ET — Live Winter Art Camp kickoff on Zoom to meet your fellow Winter Art Campers — writers, painters, photographers, poets, artists of all kinds.
- Studio Sessions, TBD — We'll gather at least weekly on Zoom to do our art together. We'll share our art in progress at the beginning, work independently, and then share at the end. You'll get a Doodle poll to help find optimal times.
- Winter Camp Finale, TBD — If there's interest, we'll hold a finale gathering and share our creative progress and future plans.

3 Rules of Winter Art Camp

- 1) Be Kind — to others and yourself ❤️
- 2) Be Open — realize our art, our creativity and our perspectives can be different. Be willing to be curious and learn something new.
- 3) Be Encouraging — help nudge each other and ourselves, and when hard things come up, offer space and support.
